

Advance Information

ASIA-GULF ECONOMIC RELATIONS IN THE 21ST CENTURY
The Local to Global Transformation

*Edited by Tim Niblock (University of Exeter)
with Monica Malik (Chief Economist, EFG Hermes, Dubai)*

ISBN: 978-3-940924-10-0 (print)
377 pp
Publication Date: March 2013
Price: € 80.00
plus shipping (and VAT if applicable)

Asia constitutes the hub of the transformation of global economic power today. The Gulf, itself part of Asia, is of increasing importance in this transformation. This book documents the growing interactions between the economies of the Gulf states and those of the rest of Asia. These relationships are critical to how the world economy develops over the next decade, and how economic (and perhaps strategic) power is distributed.

This volume assembles cutting-edge thinking by 16 specialists on a wide variety of topics covering Arab Gulf relations with China, Japan, ASEAN, Korea and India, as well as with Russia, Iran and Turkey.

Key Subjects:

Economics, Politics, Asian Studies, Middle East Studies

Markets:

- University, Ministry and National Libraries
- Researchers in the economics of Asia and the Middle East
- Policy-makers
- Financial institutions

Table of Contents

- 1. Gulf-Asia Economic Relations, Pan-Gulf and Pan-Asia Perspectives
Tim Niblock
- 2. The Growing Roles of Asian Powers in the Gulf: A Saudi Perspective
Naser al-Tamimi
- 3. Iran's Ties with Asia
Sara Bazoobandi
- 4. Turkey and the Gulf: An Evolving Economic Partnership
Özlem Tür
- 5. Russia and the Gulf: the Main Principles of the Political and Economic Dialogue
Nikolay Kozhanov
- 6. Situating the Gulf in India's Engagement with Emerging Asia
Girijesh Pant
- 7. India and the Emerging Gulf: Between "Strategic Balancing" and "Soft Power" Options
K. M. Seethi
- 8. The Economic Relations Between China and the GCC Countries since 2008
Chen Mo
- 9. China and Iran: Special Economic Partners
Huang Minxing and Ji Kaiyun
- 10. Mobilizing Muslim Minority, Targeting Arab Trade: China's Ningxia as the Islamic Hub for China-Arab Connections
Ho Wai-Yip
- 11. China and the Gulf: The Social and Cultural Implications of Their Rapidly Developing Economic Ties
Jacqueline Armijo
- 12. Beyond Food for Fuel: the Little Red Dot in GCC-ASEAN Relations
Sofiah Jamil
- 13. What Determines Malaysia's Interest in the GCC?
Mohamed Fauzi Abu-Hussin and Mohamed Afandi Salleh
- 14. Small is Beautiful: South Korean-Gulf Relations as an Example of Strategic Engagement by Players in Different Arenas
Joachim Kolb
- 15. Japan's Engagement in the Gulf
Yukiko Miyagi in collaboration with Yoshikazu Kobayashi, Akiko Yoshioka and Koji Horinuki
- 16. Japan and the Gulf: Balancing the Business Relationship
Yoshio Minagi

List of Contributors

Mohamed Fauzi Abu-Hussin is a senior lecturer at the Faculty of Islamic Civilisation, Universiti Teknologi Malaysia (UTM), Malaysia. He is a PhD holder from Durham University with specialisation in Islamic Political Economy. He earned his Master degree in Economics and Bachelor of Syariah Economics from University of Malaya. His main research interests include the political economy of the Arab Gulf and the Middle East countries' relation relations with Asia. His work has focused primarily on the Arab gulf relation with South East Asian countries and issues of economic development in the Arab Gulf.

Naser al-Tamimi holds a PhD degree in Government and International Relations from Durham University, England. He is also a UK-based independent political consultant and journalist. He has written/edited several articles and books (Arabic and English) on the most pertinent political and economic issues affecting the Middle East.

Jacqueline Armijo is an Associate Professor in the Department of International Affairs at Qatar University. She has published extensively in the field of Islam in China, and is now focusing her research on the growing importance of China – Gulf relations. Dr. Armijo has also taught at Zayed University (UAE), Stanford, and Cornell. She has lived in the Gulf region for ten years and in China for seven. She received her PhD from Harvard University.

Sara Bazoobandi is a research fellow at the Middle East Institute of the National University of Singapore and previously worked for various organisations, including Nomura International and Roubini Global Economic. She has recently published a book on political economy of Gulf Sovereign Wealth Funds. Sara holds an MSc from the University of Reading and a PhD from Exeter University.

Koji Horinuki is a researcher of the Japanese Institute of Middle Eastern Economies (JIME) Center, Institute of Energy Economics, Japan (IEEJ) since December 2010. His research interests include contemporary Gulf politics and social affairs.

Sofiah Jamil is an Adjunct Research Associate at the Centre for Non-Traditional Security (NTS) Studies, S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS), Nanyang Technological University (NTU), Singapore. Her published works include two co-authored chapters in an edited volume on Energy and Non-Traditional Security in East Asia; and a chapter on "Islam & Environmentalism: Greening Our Youth" in Igniting Thought, Unleashing Youth: Perspectives on Muslim Youth and Activism in Singapore. She holds a masters in international relations from NTU and is currently pursuing her doctorate in international, political and strategic studies at The Australian National University.

Ji Kaiyun is Professor of World History in the College of History and Culture, and Director of Iranian Studies, Southwest University, Chongqing, Peoples Republic of China. The focus of his research and publications is on Iranian Studies.

Yoshikazu Kobayashi is Manager of Oil Group of the Institute of Energy Economics, Japan (IEEJ). Earlier he was an analyst at Tonen General Sekiyu, an ExxonMobil- affiliated company in Japan covering refinery operation planning and marine transportation. His research is on the world oil and gas market and energy security issues in Northeast Asia.

Joachim Kolb is director of the DAAD Information Centre Gulf Region in Abu Dhabi. He holds an MA in Islamic Studies from University of Tübingen and an MSc and a PhD from the Center of Financial and Management Studies, SOAS, University of London. Apart from the international relations of the GCC countries, main research interests include economic policymaking and the development of regulatory authorities in the MENA region.

Nikolay Kozhanov is a scholar at the nongovernmental Institute of the Middle East (Moscow, Russia) and a senior lecturer at the School of Economics of the St. Petersburg State University. From 2006 to 2009, he served as an attaché at the Russian embassy in Tehran, where his portfolio included socio-economic and energy issues as well as issues related to the nuclear program of Iran. At the end of his tenure with the Russian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Dr. Kozhanov continued his research with a special focus on modern Iran and the Middle East.

Monica Malik is the Chief Economist and heads the Economics team of EFGHermes. Prior she was the Senior Economist for the MENA region in Standard Chartered (Dubai) and at Dun & Bradstreet (London). She holds a PhD in Economic Development in the Middle East from the University of Durham, focusing on private sector development in Saudi Arabia. She is based in Dubai.

Yoshio Minagi is Executive Director of Mizuho Corporate Bank Ltd Dubai Branch and concurrently Chief Representative of its Bahrain Office since 2008. He previously held a position of Managing Director, Japan External Trade Organization (JETRO), Dubai Office. He has involved Japanese business in the Middle East since 1995 from the viewpoints of both private company and government institution.

Huang Minxing, PhD, was born in April 1958 and is the Professor of Middle East Studies and Director of the Institute of Middle Eastern Studies at Northwest University, Xi'an, Peoples Republic of China. His main publications are on the history of the Middle East.

Yukiko Miyagi is Research Fellow at the Institute of Middle East, Central Asia and Caucasus Studies, the University of St Andrews. Previously she was Lecturer in the School of Government and International Affairs, University of Durham. She is a specialist in Middle Eastern-East Asian relations, Middle East politics, and East Asian politics.

Chen Mo is Associate Professor at the Institute of West-Asian and African Studies (IWAAS) in the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences (CASS). She is also deputy secretary-general of the Chinese Association for Middle East Studies. Her research focus is on energy security, economic relations between China and GCC countries, and economic development of West Asian and African countries.

Tim Niblock is Emeritus Professor of Middle East Politics at the University of Exeter, and Vice-President of the European Association for Middle East Studies. He was formerly Director of the Institute of Arab and Islamic Studies at Exeter, and has also served at the University of Durham, the University of Reading and the University of Khartoum. He works on the Political Economy and International Relations of the Middle East.

Girijesh Pant is Professor and Dean in School of International Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University India. He specializes on, Development studies, Political economy of International Energy, India's Energy Security, Economies of West Asia.

Mohamed Afandi Salleh is presently a senior lecturer at the Faculty of Law and International Relations, Universiti Sultan Zainal Abidin, Terengganu, Malaysia. He obtained his bachelor degree in Political Science from International Islamic University Malaysia (IIUM), LL.M in International Law and International Relations from University of Lancaster, United Kingdom and Ph D in International Relations from University of Durham, United Kingdom. His research interests include religion and international relations, American foreign policy and public international law.

K. M. Seethi is Dean of Social Sciences and Professor of International Relations in Mahatma Gandhi University (MGU), Kottayam, Kerala, India. He is also Director of the KN Raj Centre for Planning, MGU and Editor of South Asian Journal of Diplomacy. He also held positions such as Director of Research, and Director of School of International Relations and Politics, MGU.

Özlem Tür is an Associate Professor of International Relations at Middle East Technical University, Ankara, Turkey. Her main expertise include the political economy of the Middle East, and Turkish - Middle Eastern relations (especially Syria, Israel and Lebanon). Her publications include Turkey - Challenges of Continuity and Change (Routledge, 2005, with Meliha Altunışık), "Turkish-Syrian Relations in the 2000s – Where are we Going?" (UNISCI 2010), "Political Economy of Turkey's Relations with the Middle East" (Turkish Studies, 2011) and "Turkey and Israel in the 2000s" (Israel Studies, 2012).

Ho Wai-Yip is an Assistant Professor at the Department of Social Sciences, Hong Kong Institute of Education, Hong Kong. He has been the Sir Edward Fellow; the Rotary Ambassadorial Scholar at the Institute of Arab & Islamic Studies (IAIS), University of Exeter; Endeavour Research Fellow at Australian National University and Visiting Scholar at Oxford Centre of Muslim-Christian Studies (CMCS). His recent research interests include Gulf-China relations, China's Christian-Muslim relations, the New Media and Islam in China.

Akiko Yoshioka is a researcher of the Japanese Institute of Middle Eastern Economies (JIME) Centre- Institute of Energy Economics, Japan (IEEJ). She was a visiting researcher in the Gulf Research Centre in Dubai during 2007. The fields of her research interests are contemporary Iraqi politics and economy, especially after 2003.